Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 03 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Some showery rain in southeastern areas but many parts fine.

This Evening and Tonight:
Evening showers in east fading. Some fog in northeastern coastal areas. Showers affecting parts of Northern Ireland and western Scotland, while occasional rain reaches southeastern parts of England, especially later. Remaining areas clearer and chilly with odd fog patches.

Friday:
Some southeastern areas cloudy and cooler, with showery rain, possibly heavy and thundery in far southeast. A few showers towards the northwest of UK, other areas seeing some warm sunshine.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Plenty of fine weather with warm sunny spells, but also a few showers; these mainly in the north-west on Saturday and then in the south Sunday/Monday. Chilly overnight for some.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.